TEMPO

WHY THIS TEMPO? (TIME IN ITALIAN)

Inspiration

This story is inspired by David's grandma and great aunt, who sold their guitar and music dreams to survive poverty after the Vietnam War. Grandma stayed in Saigon while Great Aunt gone nomad.

The Story Plays with Time/Tempo

The show uses a form of storytelling in which Dakota's story is told in chronological order (starting when Dakota finds out about Grandma Jessica's dementia) and Jessica and Lorenza's story is told in reverse order (beginning the show when the War separated them, fifty years ago).

MEET TAB & CODA

Dakota, a lonely Midwestern musician, must fulfill Grandma Jessica's dying wish to reunite with her sister Lorenza, who went missing during a war long ago along with her music. In a region known as The Middle, their search takes a turn upon hearing a Middle Eastern poet sing Lorenza's songs at her temple.

Tempo explores themes of temporary love and pain, and music as a temple of memory and reconnections.

DAKOTA F. CHÉRY

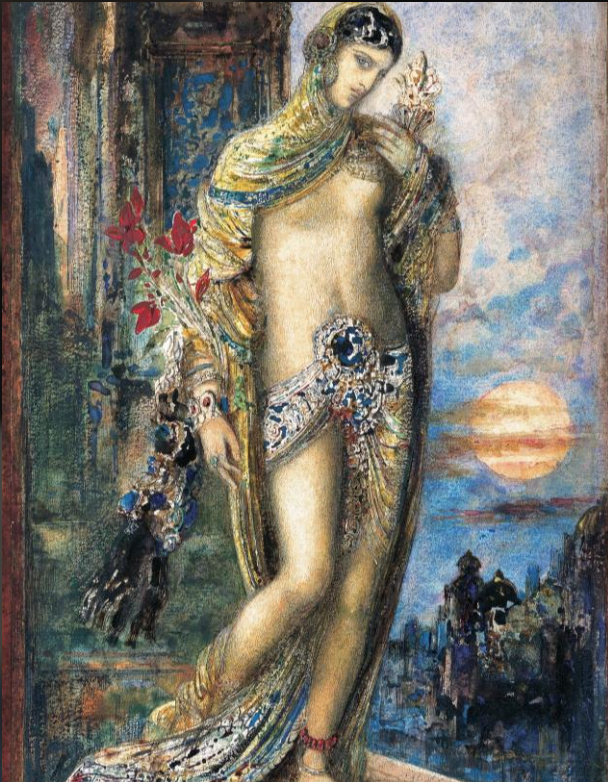

Kota is a lonely musician in the Midwest. Their parents prevent them from visiting their motherland. But when Grandma Jessica's dementia becomes severe, Kota sets out to help accomplish her dreams.
